

LA FOLLETTE TO BE FACTOR IN FALL ELECTION

Serves Notice That he Must Be Reckoned With By Both Parties

Washington, May 28.—Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, guiding genius of the insurgent forces that control the 65th congress served notice today on the leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties that he must be reckoned with in any calculations designed to elect a President of the United States in November.

While not announcing his candidacy for the presidency La Follette charged both old parties with failure to carry out the mandates of the voters and declared that unless changes are forthcoming, "long suffering and righteously indignant people will find on the coming campaign effective means independent of both these old parties, to take back control of their government and make it truly representative."

This was interpreted as a clear invitation of La Follette's willingness to head an independent political movement should subsequent developments warrant such a course.

La Follette's views on national politics, particularly in connection with the approaching national conventions were contained in a letter which he wrote from Atlantic City, N. J., where he is convalescing from a recent illness, to Herman L. Ekern, attorney general of Wisconsin. The letter was made public here by his son, Robert M. La Follette Jr.

In characteristic fashion La Follette lashed out at the scandals in Washington and demanded an "official cleanup," at the same time he divorced himself completely from any connection with the Communist movement in the United States, declaring that he would have nothing to do with the farmer-labor-progressive convention at St. Paul, Minn., on June 17, "because those who have had charge of the arrangements for the convention have committed the fatal error of making the Communists an integral part of their organization."

GUN ELEVATION NOT VIOLATION IS WORD

Washington, May 28.—While the house prepared today to approve an expenditure of $200,000,000 to make the U. S. navy equal in every respect to that of Great Britain, President Coolidge signed the 1924-1925 naval appropriation bill, carrying a rider providing for new international conference to limit aircraft, submarines and auxiliary craft.

Washington, May 28.—The U. S. government is prepared to insist before the world that elevation of the guns on American capital ships to increase their firing range does not constitute a violation of the Washington naval treaty, it was learned today following a conference at the White House last night between President Coolidge and congressional naval leaders.

Such a position is in conflict with the view of the British government and contrary to the stand, taken by the late President Harding who forced congress to recall an appropriation of $5,500,000 to raise the guns.

CHARGES RECORDS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Washington, May 28.—Charges that important reports, relating to the department of justice investigation, wanted by the Wheeler-Brookhart committee, were taken away by William J. Burns, former chief of investigation when he left the department were made here today.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, declared that committee attaches after a thorough search of the files could not find the reports made to the department in February, 1924, by special agents.

HERESY TRIAL MAY FIND ITS WAY INTO STATE COURTS ULTIMATELY

Bishop W. M. Brown Indicates He Will Carry Issue Out Of Ecclesiastical Tribunal Should Case Go Against Him.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 28.—Bishop William Montgomery Brown on trial here for heresy before a jury of his fellow bishops, lost the first round of his fight against being tried today when the ecclesiastical court decided that it has the right to try the bishop for his heretical utterances and errors of doctrine.

The decision of the court today is regarded in ecclesiastical circles as momentous, in that it establishes in these modern days the decision of the house of bishops to try and possibly expel a member who has gone counter to the creed and doctrine of the Church.

Joseph W. Sharts, chief counsel for Bishop Brown, immediately made a new move. He demanded that, inasmuch as this court is sitting as both judge and jury, his client be permitted to examine the trial bishops to determine whether they had formed preconceived notions as to the guilt or innocence of Bishop Brown.

Without acting on this demand, Bishop Murray insisted that the jurisdiction of the court having been established the presentment against Bishop Brown be read and he pleaded to it.

This presentment consists of 23 excerpts taken from Bishop Brown's book "Christianism and Communism" in which he said he no longer believed in a conscious personal divinity, and that there was "no longer any rational doubt as to the fiction of a physical Jesus."

Cleveland, O., May 28.—America's first heresy trial, a spectacle unique in modern churchdom and unwitnessed anywhere since the days of the Reformation, went into its second phase in Trinity Cathedral here today with every indication pointing to developments so peculiar that precedents will guide the church for years to come.

The whole right of the Protestant Episcopal Church to adjudicate one of its high functionaries, Bishop William Montgomery Brown, guilty of teaching heretical doctrine and expel him from its councils, has been challenged by the sixty-nine year old patriarch and will be fought out along lines that ultimately may carry the issue out of the ecclesiastical courts and into the state courts for determination.

Counsel for the accused bishop said today if the decision goes against Bishop Brown in the present court of nine bishops, they will take recourse to the injunction powers of the civil tribunals, and thus once more bring into conflict the legalistic powers of church and state.

Bishop Brown denies the divinity of Christ; he doubts that Christ ever existed in a corporeal sense; he regards the story of Creation in Genesis and the other miracles related in the Old and New Testaments as fables; and yet he says he is as devout Christian today, facing trial for heresy, as he was forty years ago, when ordained in the priesthood.

"I really love the symbolism of Jesus Christ," he said today, his eyes on the stained glass window of his trial room, where the figure of the Savior with arms outstretched looked down upon this strange courtroom scene. "To me, looking backward over the vista of nearly half a century in the service of the church, Christ and Santa Claus and Uncle Sam are all the same. None of them actually existed. Yet they represent things I believe in. They represent all that is good and kind of charitable. They are symbolic of goodness."

WOMAN HAS ALIBI WELL ESTABLISHED

Lansing, Mich., May 28.—Mrs. Mona Lambert will not return to Columbus, Ohio, to face kidnapping charges, unless Ohio authorities are able to disprove her alibi that she was here May 16 the date of the child stealing. At the extradition hearing neighbors testified that she was at her home May 16. Ohio authorities were given until June second to produce more evidence. Otherwise Governor Groesbeck will deny extradition.

Mrs. Lambert was accused of kidnapping Mary Catherine, nine year old daughter of Frank Courtner of Columbus, O., as the child was going to school on the morning of May 16.

PROPERTY LOSS IN SOUTH MAY REACH MILLION

Mississippi Suffers Most
From Effects of Tornado
Tuesday

Atlanta, Ga., May 28.—Forty-six dead almost 200 injured and property damage estimated at approximately $1,000,000 today—constituted the toll yesterday's storms which swept across Alabama and Mississippi.

Mississippi suffered most. Twenty-three persons lost their lives at various points over that state and the same number were reported dead in Alabama.

Mississippi likewise bore the brunt of property damage. Starting at Johnston Station, the cyclone played around the entire state, dropping at on spot to disappear and then swoop down at another some distance away an hour later, before it started its journey eastward.

Alabama was the next state in its path.

GOFF IS LEADING FIELD IN SENATE RACE IN W. VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., May 28.—Guy D. Goff, Clarksburg, appeared assured this morning of the Republican nomination for United States Senator while W. E. Chilton was leading Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown by 800 votes for the Democratic nomination for the same office, according to incomplete returns from yesterday's state primary.

Howard M. Gore forged ahead of E. T. England early today for the Republican nomination for governor and as additional returns were received continued to hold the lead. Jake Fisher's commanding position in the Democratic gubernatorial race showed no signs of lessening.

Former Senator Chilton and Mrs. Brown ran neck and neck for several hours but the returns from Kanawha County forged Chilton ahead.

Houston G. Young, secretary of state, conceded his defeat for Republican nomination for governor early today.

"I am for Coolidge, Goff, England, and the Republican ticket," he said in announcing his surrender.

Former Congressman Echols, of the sixth district, with 2,372 votes had a commanding lead over his four opponents and was adding to his gains.

Congressman J. Alfred Taylor, Fayetteville, Democrat, was unopposed.

BELIEVE MANIA FOR JEWELRY MAY HAVE PROMPTED MURDER OF SCHOOL TEACHER

LOUISE GERRISH

Ellsworth, Maine, May 28.—Belief that robbery and a mania for jewelry prompted Ronald McDonald, 15 years old, to shoot Miss Louise Gerrish, his school teacher, at Amherst last Wednesday night, was expressed by Sheriff Wescott. The boy is alleged to have confessed that he killed the young woman.

Roland and his younger brother, Victor, held as a witness, were questioned at length by authorities. The Sheriff said that their statements appeared to bear out the robbery theory.

The teacher's watch, rings and a small sum of money have been recovered from the hiding place under the sill of the barn at the home of George Williams, Amherst, where Roland told officers he had placed them. The teacher had boarded at the Williams home and the McDonald boys were employed there to do the chores before and after school. Miss Gerrish was engaged to Williams's son Russell.

TWO BEING HELD FOR INVESTIGATION INTO FRANKS DEATH

Chicago, May 28.—While police insist they still are up against a blank wall in the hunt for the kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, 14, they will fight efforts to free Mott Kirk Mitchell and Walter Wilson, instructors at the private school attended by the victim.

This afternoon attorneys are scheduled to appear in court with a demand for release of the two men.

Chief of Police Collins said that he would fight to hold the men in custody "for questioning" until such time as he felt absolutely certain they had no connection with the affair.

If indications point to the release of the men "we will book one of them in connection with the murder," Collins said.

Several dope addicts and known pervers have been picked up for examination.

Other suspicious characters are being picked up hourly and being released just as fast.

Chief of Detectives Hughes has started his investigation all over again for a third time. He is examining members of the Franks family to determine whether revenge and not ransom or perversion was the motive.

UNITE IN EFFORT TO COMBAT POLLUTION

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—The chief sanitary engineers of Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, last night agreed to establish a uniform tri-state policy to combat increasing pollution of rivers by cities and industries, which they allege, is becoming a menace to the water supply of the public. This marks the first decision upon united effort to remove pollution in the Ohio Valley.

The three chief engineers were W. H. Dittoe, of Ohio; W. L. Stevenson, of Pennsylvania and E. S. Tisdale, of West Virginia.

Dr. John Monger, Ohio director of health, and Dr. W. H. Frost, Baltimore, U. S. public health service, were present in advisory capacity.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY MAY CLOSE EARLIER

Clerk Announces Session
Is Ahead of Docket
Wednesday

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 28.—Dr. L. S. C. Mudge, clerk, announced today that the Presbyterian general assembly in session here is ahead of its docket and might close tonight in accordance with the first schedule. It was announced the second day of the assembly that it would be necessary to extend the meeting for at least one day.

Disposal of the heresy case of Harry Emerson Fosdick, ordained Baptist Minister, employed as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York, will undoubtedly come before the afternoon session.

Committing to the judiciary commission the assembly's supreme court, of overture 10, which deals with supplying vacant pulpits, is generally recognized as added fuel for the explosion to follow. While the overture originally had no connection with the Fosdick matter, its essence relates to the avowal of the "five point creed" before an individual Presbytery may engage a pastor.

Leaders in both the fundamentalist and modernist camps today regarded yesterday's disposition of overture ten as only a temporary evasion of the issue of liberalism, which they declare will rise as the big obstacle to harmony when the judiciary commission reports out the Philadelphia Presbytery overture today.

The latter overture, which requires that all who represent the church in boards, councils and seminaries reaffirm their faith, is expected to precipitate the storm.

Selection of the 1925 assembly place, election of assembly trustees and election to vacancies on the judicial committee and the general council were also matters of importance to come before the assembly today.

XENIA MUSIC CLUB PRESENTS MUSICALE TUESDAY EVENING

The Xenia Woman's Music Club closed a successful season with its annual spring open meeting held Tuesday evening at the First United Presbyterian Church. The program, which was presented entirely by the club members themselves, was of high artistic value and was unusually pleasing and varied, combining, as it did, ensemble and solo numbers.

The opening and closing numbers were two two-piano selections "Gondoliers" by Carl Reinecke and "Waltz" by Arnesen played by Miss Bishop and Miss Steele. These numbers were both charming and were very well played, the ensemble work of the two performers being particularly good. The waltz which closed the performance proved especially popular.

Mrs. James Hawkins sang a group of three songs, her lovely high soprano voice showing off to particular advantage in the "Invocation to Life" by Gilbert Spross. Mrs. Hawkins' voice possesses unusual clearness and range and her numbers were all well received.

Miss Juanita Rankin played two very difficult compositions, "The Lark" by Balakirev and Liszt's ever-popular "Second Hungarian Rhapsodie." These numbers were both well calculated to display Miss Rankin's brilliancy of execution and technical control and her spirited interpretation of the Rhapsodie won her well-deserved applause.

The next numbers on the program were given by Mrs. McGervey, the club's very efficient president, who delighted the audience with three songs "Autumn" by Eugene Hale; "I'm a'wandering" (an old slave song) and "Drumadon" by Sanderson. Mrs. McGervey's voice possesses a great deal of warmth and color which makes it very appealing and as always she sang with a great deal of feeling.

One very delightful feature of the program was furnished by two old Negro Spiritual Songs, arranged for three voices and sung by Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Meredith. The three voices were beautifully blended and the touching old songs were greatly enjoyed.

Miss Martha Smith followed these with a group of three charming piano numbers all of which were beautifully played and showed a rare power of interpretation. Miss Smith plays with an exquisite delicacy of touch and an accuracy which borders on perfection. Her second number, "Capriccio" by Ganz, written for the right hand alone won her particular applause.

The last group of numbers was presented by Mrs. Cherry, who has won distinction through her compositions as well as by her beautiful voice. She sang a new song of her own "Blind Eyes" a beautiful composition never before sung in public which has a particularly appealing quality. Mrs. Cherry's other numbers were two old English songs which she sang charmingly.

Miss Stella Bishop acted as the accompanist of the evening and played the many difficult accompaniments with a great deal of feeling and appreciation.

SUSPENSION OF OFFICER AFFIRMED

The Xenia Civil Service Commission Tuesday night affirmed the judgment of the City Commission in the case of H. T. Confer, discharged Xenia policeman, making his removal from the department permanent.

Confer turned in his badge and cap shield to Chief of Police M. E. Graham Wednesday morning and was given his check in payment for his last services for the city.

In affirming the decision of the City Commission the Civil Service Commission sustained the three charges sustained by the City Commission following the original hearing. Five charges were filed against Confer by City Manager S. O. Hale, when he was suspended.

The City Commission held a public hearing on these charges, sustaining the charges of incompetency, conduct unbecoming an officer and insubordination. Confer then appealed to the Civil Service Commission according to the rights allowed him in the charter, and the Civil Service Commission held another public hearing at which the transcript of the original evidence and additional testimony was introduced a week ago last Monday.

Since then, E. F. McKee, Springfield, attorney for Confer and City Solicitor J. A. Finney, submitted arguments by brief to the commission and the evidence and briefs were read Monday night. The commission met briefly Tuesday night and voted to affirm the decision of the City Commission. A copy of the minutes will now be certified to the City Commission and placed on file.

WOODS WEEPS AS TOKIO GIVES HIM OVATION

Cyrus E. Woods, American Ambassador to Japan, was the central figure in one of the most striking demonstrations of popular regard and affection ever seen in Tokio.

The crowd, packing the auditorium of the newspaper Hochi Shimbun to hear him make a farewell address, cheered him with "Banzais," which echoed through the building long after the Ambassador, half weeping and downcast, had finished. The audience then thronged to the platform and wrung his hand to assure him of their undying friendship.

Mr. Woods, deeply affected by the demonstration, left the hall to continue his round of Tokio newspaper offices, where he had been invited to call. It was the first time such a round of farewell calls ever has been made by a departing diplomat.

In his address at the Hochi, the Ambassador said the outpouring of sympathy following the earthquake was the true index of America's attitude toward Japan and that through such a period as the present the Japanese people should remember the exclusion of Japanese immigrants by Congress did not represent the wishes of the American people as a whole and that a large proportion of sentiment in the United States opposed such legislation.

The climax of his address which brought deafening cheers from the packed auditorium, was the promise that although resigning his office he would continue to devote his best efforts to the maintenance of American-Japanese friendship. His fervent plea for co-operation in this work was answered by applause which promised the help of all within the sound of his voice.

Mr. Woods' method in meeting the delicate situation, arising out of the exclusion law, has done more than anything else possible to neutralize Japanese resentment.

ANYTHING TO EMBARRASS REPUBLICANS

The Harding-Hughes proposals for the World Court put forward in February, 1923, were themselves a compromise between the demands of the out-and-out enemies of the League of Nations and its devoted friends. The Lodge plan for a world tribunal is a compromise between the existing court set up by the League and the old, half forgotten Hague Tribunal. The Pepper plan is a further compromise between the Harding-Hughes and the Lodge plans. Compromises are being further compromised and all the time these get farther away from any hopeful action. Democrats for reasons of political strategy that seem good to them, will joyfully assail two out of these three Republican proposals. They will line up back of the Harding-Hughes plan because thereby they can bring the Republicans certain further embarrassments. Both sides are shadow-boxing. There is little determination in the Senate to act on any World Court plan at the present session. This storm in the Foreign Relations Committee that may spread to the Senate floor is one of the lesser partisan tempests that will enliven the closing hours of a weary Congress.—Public Ledger.

COUNT US OUT

Mussolini on Monday met the Belgian Premier and Foreign Minister at Milan to discuss the Daves program. General agreement was announced. On the question of deciding in advance what shall be done in case of a default by Germany, the Italian Premier is represented as saying that an allied agreement can be reached. This would bring France, Belgium and Italy together on the matter; only Great Britain wants the default question left undecided until the default occurs. Mussolini still contends however, that the problem of war debts is bound up in that of reparations. Italy would gain, of course, from a settlement that stabilized trade and finance in Europe. That, however is not enough for Mussolini. He wants something to boot, just as he wanted—and obtained—a treaty with Jugoslavia with Fiume to boot. If Italy can get reparations, a share in the pickings from a stabilized Europe and, in addition, relief from a portion of her war debts, then Italy will consider helping things along.

THE SPIRIT

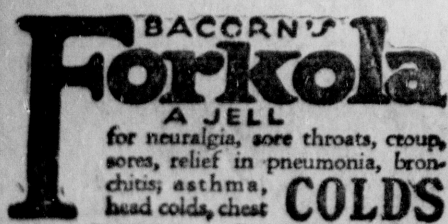

I heard them talk within the darkened place
Of one whose life had closed, and
This they said:
"With all who came he gladly
shared his bread,
Now countless men shall miss his smiling face.
In him of hate there seemed to be no trace,
He loved, was loved, kept faith and looked ahead;
And now we know, who look upon a dead,
Here, as a soul the world could not debase."
How curiously the living praise the dead!
That which all men admire and all women mourn,
Is of the spirit, not the body born—
The gentle heart, and not the clever head.

USE OPERA HOUSE IN CASE OF RAIN

Because of the rainy weather recently plans have been made to hold the Memorial Day services scheduled for Woodland Cemetery in the Xenia Opera House, in case of rain.

Threatening weather this week caused J. W. Hedges, G. A. R. official assisting in the Memorial Day arrangements, to obtain use of the City Hall auditorium, in case the weather should prevent an outdoor program at the last minute.

Services have been held at the Opera House several times in the past when rain threatened to spoil the program, it is said. The program will be held at the cemetery as scheduled unless it should rain Friday.

In life, high conquest counts. In death, we see That which the least of us has power to be.

REMOVING THE OBSTACLE

1904-Twenty Years Ago-1924

The City Council refused to grant the requests of the D. and X. Transit Company for permission to abandon the South Detroit Street line from Main Street, at the meeting last night. Persons who visit the Neff grounds at Yellow Springs, find them more beautiful than ever. Bert Taylor, the genial agent for the C. H. and D. railroad has finally "got the worst of it" in a wrestling match. However he doesn't hold any grudge because he had two of his ribs cracked, considering that his opponent was in the 200 pound class and belonged to the baggage family. A dance will be given by the Young Men's Outing Club at Lucas Grove Friday night.

To Can Cherries. The difference between canning sweet and sour cherries lies in the density of the syrup used: for sour cherries use a medium-thin syrup and for sweet cherries a thin syrup.

To Make a Medium-Thin Syrup: Combine one quart of water and three pounds of granulated sugar, heat to boiling point, then let continue to boil for four minutes. It should be slightly thick and, when cooled, sticky to the touch.

To Make a Thin Syrup: Combine one quart of water and three pounds of granulated sugar; heat to boiling point and do not let boil more than a minute. It is necessary only to have the sugar thoroughly dissolved. This syrup should not be sticky.

Cold Packed Method: Wash the cherries in cold water and pit. Save whatever juice there is from the pitting process. Pack the fruit into hot, sterilized quart-sized jars to within one-half inch of rim with boiling hot syrup. Adjust rubbers and covers. Put top wire up, but do not press down side wires, and stand the jars on a rack or a folded cloth in the bottom of your wash-boiler in boiling hot water which raises almost to jar tops. After the water continues to boil, take account of time, letting it boil around the jar for 16 minutes. Remove jars, invert to test for leaks, label and store. (Note: Cherries may be canned in exactly the same way without pitting, but I believe that the extra trouble of pitting is well worth taking.

Cherry Preserves: Stone and mash enough ripe cherries to give one cupful of cherry juice. Strain this from the crushed fruit and place it in a preserving kettle with three pounds of granulated sugar; let this syrup boil for four minutes, then add to it four pounds of pitted whole cherries and let cook till the fruit is clear. Cool slightly, pack into hot, sterilized pint-size jars. Adjust rubbers and covers partially sealed sink the jars into boiling water which reaches almost to caps; let this water boil around them for 15 minutes. Remove jars completely seal, cool, label and store.

THE MISTAKE OF POWER

Those who rise to the greatest heights of power are not those who sought power.

When we think of "the pomp of power," we have in mind one who has sought something for itself alone and who, soon or later, dies a disappointed man.

Self-sought power has to live upon itself and so, of course, has a limited and unhappy existence.

The unlimited power that beauty gives out is something that has been accumulated, not for itself alone, but for all mankind.

An unselfish character always draws others to it. It is magnetic, and therefore has an inherent power. But selfish power accumulates only through fear and boast and false pomp.

One by one the transitory idols of limited power fall before us. We think that life is falling to pieces. But if we have thought as we have observed, we soon learn that life is building itself greater within our hearts as these very idols crumble before our eyes.

The story of the boy with fish-line and bait passing the great palace where the King stood looking out, each wishing he were the other, is a true picture of life.

He who has the "pomp of power" wants to get rid of it, and he who sees its glamor wants it for himself.

In the end—or, rather, sooner or later before the end—we come to measure life in values alone.

Mere purchase does not bring what the heart yearns for.

And power doesn't bring happiness—but happiness is able to bring power, and power of a very useful, lasting sort.

APPEAL FOR FLOWERS FOR MEMORIAL DAY MADE BY COMMITTEE

Scarcity of flowers this year due to the backward spring weather, will result in a distressing flower famine for Memorial Day unless everyone who has flowers comes to the rescue, according to the members of the decorating committee.

This scarcity was stressed at the meeting of the committees held Tuesday night, from which an appeal went forth to everyone who can furnish flowers to do so in order to help out the occasion. Members of the committee point out that there are more than 1,000 graves of soldiers in this area which have to be decorated and that thousands of blossoms are necessary.

Owing to the unusually bad May weather, lilacs have faded, bridal wreath is nearly gone, and roses and peonies have been prevented from blossoming by the cold weather. As a result, there are only a few varieties available and these are not in large quantities.

The graves will be decorated Thursday evening by patriotic organizations, and the flowers should be delivered at the Court House Thursday morning. People are asked to sacrifice by contributing to the supply they will use on graves of relatives and send as many as possible to the general collection in the basement of the Court House.

People who will assist in decorating the graves are expected to meet at the Court House Thursday evening at 5 o'clock. Members of the W. R. C. Legion Auxiliary, D. of V. and others are expected.

Friends of the American Legion are asked to bring their flowers to the post hall, Detroit and Second Streets on Thursday afternoon or call 708 W. and they will be sent for.

BEAUTIFICATION OF WATER WORKS OF CITY EFFECTED

Grounds at the Old Town station of the municipal water department have been transformed into a beauty spot through the efforts of the city assisted by the Xenia Garden Club.

A low spot in the grounds just south of the plant has been made into a sunken garden with an artistic, decorative fountain in the center. The garden, which is about one hundred feet square, has been laid out in flower beds in the form of stars, crescents and triangles and these beds have been planted with zinnias.

Shrubbery, planted in clumps, borders the garden and across the west end of the terrace the words "Xenia Water Works" have been outlined in paving brick painted white. Shade trees have been set out along the driveway leading back to the garden and the place will be a thing of beauty when the flowers come into bloom. Two hundred and fifty shrubs secured through the garden club have been planted on the grounds and the club has planted the zinnias.

Much credit is due City Auditor T. H. Zell for his efforts in planning the beautification feature.

COURT DOESN'T LURE WIVES OF ENGLISH LABOR

London, May 29—Wives of British Labor Cabinet Ministers are showing no anxiety to achieve the height of social ambition by being presented at court.

But Ambassador Kellogg has hundreds of applications from American ladies for every presentation allotted to him. So the English women's refusal may help his difficulties.

The main abjection of Ministers' wives is the expense. None of them are over-burdened with means, and they claim that the cost of the outfit necessary for them to make their curtsy before the Queen cannot be justified, particularly as they may not be able to use it again.

"I could never use the train again," said one. "It's all right for young girls. They can utilize the same train when they get married."

"I could not afford to buy those features, just to wear once," said another. "It looks to me like waste of money." And, said another, "We Labor women are no good at walking backwards."

So the courts at Buckingham Palace will not be very troubled by Cabinet Ministers' wives. Viscountess Chelmsford, hostess of Admiralty House, would have made the presentations, but, so far, the only woman who has approached her in the matter has been Mrs. J. H. Thomas, wife of the Colonial Secretary, who wants to be presented with her two daughters—Peggy, who is twenty-three and Doris, who is seventeen, and has just left school.

Mrs. Clynnes, wife of the Deputy Leader of the House of Commons, does not think she will undergo this formality, especially as she has met the Queen many times informally, and her daughter, Mrs. Herbert, has only just recovered from an operation for appendicitis and will not be well enough for social engagements for some time to come.

It has not even been decided whether Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the Prime Minister, will be formally presented at court. She has already met the Queen at several dinner parties and a number of other social functions where she has been a guest with her father, and has spent a week-end with the royal family at Windsor Castle. Ramsay MacDonald is not a believer in unnecessary splendor, although he is a great lover of tradition.

So the wives and daughters of the Labor Administration are not likely to be presented in great force to make their bow before the throne when King George and Queen Mary hold court this season.

WILL WED HEIR TO BRITISH EARLDOM.

The engagement has been announced in London of Miss Barbara Murray, of New York, to Lord Dounie, heir to the Scottish Earl of Moray, a descendant of the Scotch Kings. The Earl is immensely wealthy. Lord Dounie, now 32, was Captain in the Scottish Horse when the World War began. To get to the front more quickly he transferred to the Royal Flying Corps and in 1916 won the Military Cross for shooting down a German airplane. Later he was severely wounded in a crash. Miss Murray is the daughter of a New York City corporation attorney.

GRIZZLY HUNT LEADS TO NEW POWER SOURCE

(Note—With the increased cost of coal, the rapid depletion of oil reserves and more general harnessing of available waterpower, science is seeking some new and cheap means of power. Interest centers today on the possibility of harnessing steam created by the heat of the earth at certain inner depths. At the Geysers, one of California's natural wonders, an interesting experiment is being made. Herewith are the first of three articles prepared for the Gazette and the Republican, dealing with this attempt to convert the earth's heat into power.—Editor.)

BY ELLIS H. MARTIN.

THE GEYSERS, CAL., MAY 28.—Nearly four score years ago William B. Elliott, pioneer settler of Sonoma County, California, trailed a grizzly bear which he had wounded into a narrow canyon hitherto unexplored by white men.

The wounded bear escaped. What Elliott saw there caused him to retrace his steps with all possible speed and announce to his awe-stricken companions on the hunt that he had found "the gates of Hell."

Boiling mineral vents, steaming volcanic vents and puffing fume holes, heat bleached rocks and cliffs of weird grandeur combined to create for him a semblance of Dante's inferno.

Today this natural wonder is being investigated to determine the practicability of harnessing economically the huge and apparently inexhaustible supply of steam which underlies this remarkable canyon. At present the escaping steam supplies electric light to the health resort which nestles on the side of the canyon and which for three score years has been the mecca for world travelers. President Grant, Horace Greely, Mark Twain, Theodore Roosevelt and notables from many countries were among those who rode the long mountain trail in a six-horse stage which before the day of the automobile afforded transportation to the Geysers.

The canyon of the Geysers has an interesting history dating back of the April day in 1874 when Elliott discovered it for the white It has been known to the Indians of the Pacific Coast as the "warming grounds" and so highly was it prized that many battles were fought for its possession, according to legends of the tribes of Northern California. It is believed to have tribal religions and probably was a religious mecca for tribes of the Pacific slopes. The Indian legend credited the Geysers with having been the last creation of "The Great Spirit," and that contact with the steam pouring from the earth would dispel earthly evils.

Some sixty years ago investigation developed that the canyon had perhaps the greatest variety of mineral springs in the world and resulted in the establishment of a health resort. At a huge expense two excellent roads were built along the mountain side to the spot. One follows the canyon from its western entrance at Cloverdale 17 miles up the mountain side during which the traveler rises 1,500 feet to the head of the canyon. Along this route the famous Sonoma County quicksilver mines closed to the foot of the canyon are passed. The quicksilver deposits are said to be the largest in the world.

The other route from Healdsburg and Alexander Valley crosses the mountain range, the road in its 17 mile length rising 2,400 feet and then dropping 900 feet to the Geysers. But it is not their remarkable scenic grandeur which has caused investigators for the Southern Pacific, the General Electric, Henry Ford and other industrial giants to motor these roads to the Geysers.

It is two giant jets of live steam belching forth from steel pipes leading to the inner depths of the earth with the roar of a Niagara. The possibilities these steam jets hold, as future sources of cheap power and an explanation of the natural phenomena which develop the steam, bring scientists and investigators for industry to the Geysers.

The next article will outline the progress which has been made in harnessing the Geysers.

THREE YOUTHS ARE HELD ON CHARGE OF HAVING STOLEN CAR

Mount Vernon, O., May 28.—Charged with having a stolen machine in their possession, three youths, giving Cincinnati as their home, are in jail here today, after a cross country chase with Sheriff Roshon.

MERCHANT FINANCIAL WRECK

"I am a financial wreck because of the expense of doctors and medicine for my wife. She has been a chronic sufferer for 10 years. Some pronounced it gall stones, some gastritis and some intestinal inflammation. I happened to read an ad of May's Wonderful Remedy and from the first dose my wife has steadily improved." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Sayre and Hemphill and Druggists Everywhere.

The youths when arrested gave their names as Alvin Meyers, John Keegan and Elmer Nolan, all 21, and two of them are said to be the young men who drove sixteen year old Grace Fariello to Cleveland Monday night and abandoned her there following the wrecking of their machine. When arrested the youths were driving a truck claimed to have been stolen in this city. They will be taken before Common Pleas Judge McClure of Medina County today to enter their pleas. The Fariello girl is being held by Cleveland detectives after admitting that the kidnapping story she told when taken to headquarters was an untruth.

FRANK FATAL TO WOMAN

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—George Harrison, 8, of Milford, is mitcherless today because of one of his pranks. He hooked a wire to a 3,300 volt electric feed wire to make a radio aerial, and asked his mother, Mrs. Sadie Harris, to touch it. She did and died instantly. Two other small children survive.

VILLAGE WITHOUT JAIL; PLACE SOLD

Springhills, an incorporated village eight miles west of West Liberty, is without a jail.

The village bastille was sold for $35 last week when the ground on which it had stood for the last forty years was sold and an attachment placed on the two-room prison.

The purchaser has moved the jail off the premises. It is a wooden structure, ten by twelve feet in dimensions, and has not housed a prisoner for several months. It had stood on the same location since being built.

Springhills is an incorporated village of 150 people with a mayor, town clerk, village council and all other modern accessories. The council had not met for twelve years until the meeting last week when it was decided to dispose of the jail.

The mayor did not attend the meeting.

And would you have her return this one? It is just as much a tea gown as a negligee. It is of chiffon with a crepe de chine lining and a large moire ribbon of French blue under the rose chiffon. The rose-buds finish the neck and sleeves. You will admit Adelaide has a problem.

Mitzi has solved it. Just like that—quick as a flash the solution came to Mitzi. Keep them all! Keep all seven. One for every day in the week. Adelaide must not think of parting with the tea gown she has on with its chiffon and lace flowing coat. She must wear them all. Adelaide is relieved. It is all so simple when you know the answer.

BRINGING UP FATHER

THE HALF-TIME WIFE By VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED.

DUNCAN HALE, a young army officer, returns from the Philippines to find that

SUZANNE, with whom he is in love, has married

GEOFFREY ATWOOD, a prominent man much older than she.

Hale tries to persuade her to leave her husband, get a divorce and marry him, feeling sure that she still cares for him. Suzanne is troubled by this, and by the report that there is a love affair between

DICK LEIGH, Geoffrey's nephew, and a chorus girl.

LINDA VALE, Atwood's secretary, introduces herself to Suzanne, and makes a determined effort to interfere between husband and wife. At Dick's request, Suzanne gives a little party for the chorus girl LOLITA. Mrs. Vale manages to be asked.

XXXVIII—CONCERNING LOLITA.

MRS. VALE dined at the Atwood's that evening.

that the woman would care to come into her home, knowing that her presence there would be resented. But Mrs. Vale was, if anything, more at ease than Suzanne. She embraced Lolita, called her her darling little daughter, tried to chaff Dick a bit about being a blushing bridegroom, whereupon he quite forgot his manners and was exceedingly rude to her.

After dinner Dick, who was still under the doctor's care, went off to his room. Lolita wandered about, trying to read, watching the others play bridge, and finally curling up in a far corner. It was rather stupid of her, and Suzanne tried to give up her seat at the bridge table to the girl, but Geoffrey objected so strongly to that plan that she remained where she was.

"She ought to have her own home, poor child," she remarked sympathetically. Curtis Leland, who was the fourth at the table, heartily agreed.

"No young married couple ought to have to live with other folks," he declared. "That's all wrong. Take you two," he added, to Geoffrey and Suzanne. "You had Dick and his brother here with you—not here much of the time, but in your home, nevertheless. I think they should have been somewhere else."

"Oh, they're dear boys, and we liked having them," protested Suzanne; she had always feared that Geoffrey would think she resented having his two wards with them.

"And now you just couldn't let Dick feel that he was being shoved out of his home, when he's not well, surely," Mrs. Vale cut in. "The dear boy—he doesn't look at all well. Put of course having Lolita with him cheers him so—and feeling that he hasn't the responsibility of keeping a home of his own is such an aid to recovery."

"Nevertheless, he ought to have his own home," insisted Leland.

Geoffrey said nothing.

"Well, of course, the children are going South just as soon as Dick is a bit better," murmured Mrs. Vale, sweetly. "It will be time enough to think of what they are to do about living quarters when they return, won't it?"

"Oh, I think it's always well to plan ahead," answered Leland.

Geoffrey smiled, Suzanne, glancing up, caught his eye and smiled too. She did not quite understand this duel between Linda Vale and Curtis Leland; obviously, there was something behind it, something that Geoffrey understood, and which amused him. She sighed; since she became Geoffrey's wife so many things of this sort had bobbed up about which everyone else seemed to know, but which were Greek to her.

Later, when Mrs. Vale and Leland had gone, she asked Geoffrey about their argument.

"Oh, Leland always argues with Linda," he answered, with a yawn. "He doesn't care what's the cause of the argument, he just likes to keep it up."

"Well, I suppose Dick and Lolita ought to have their own home," Suzanne went on, thoughtfully. "What do you think?"

Geoffrey's reply was quite indistinguishable. It might have been "Yes," "No," or either. How nice it would be, thought Suzanne, to have a husband who would talk things over with you. Of course Geoff was a celebrity, he had the coming political campaign on his mind, and he didn't like the idea of Dick's being married. Perhaps he couldn't be blamed for not wanting to discuss the question.

"But he doesn't want to discuss his affairs with me," she told herself almost resentfully, as she undressed. "He talks those over with Mrs. Vale, even now, though he knows what she is. It's got so that if I want to tell him anything I'll have to get it broadcasted; he does listen to the radio once in a while, anyway!"

And she went to sleep, thinking about the curious enmity between Mrs. Vale and Leland, and wondering what it was that the latter wanted to say to her.
